

ExxonMobil and Seven-Eleven to Open 1st Joint Retail Service Station

Tokyo, April 7, 2004 -- Seven-Eleven Japan (SEJ) and ExxonMobil Yugen Kaisha (EMYK) announced today that they opened their first joint retail service station, "Seven-Eleven & Esso Express" on April 7, 7AM.

The ExxonMobil's highly technological devices like Speedpass (Pay-at-the pump), innovative "Express" self service station, combined with Seven Eleven's abilities for providing high quality of product and services with its 30-long-year experiences in operating convenience stores, will work to provide more convenient services to customers. Upon successful completion of the tests in several joint sites, the companies plan to jointly expand the alliance in selected markets in Japan.
